THANKSGIVING BANQUET

Watstika Tribe 224, I. O. R. M., Enjoy Sumptuous Spread at Their Wigwam.

With solemn incantations to slow dirge the Watstika Tribe No 224, of the Improved Order of Red Men, danced around their sacred camp fire last Thursday night, Nov. 28. The camp is located in the Odd Fellow's hall over the old stand of

The occasion was a feast for painted braves, their wives and sweethearts. Among the number there Mariah Brown, Geo. M. Crider, A. Mrs. Martha Glenn, of Caldwell counappeared pale faces to whom the mystic rites and ceremonies were very interesting. Their quiet demeanor and exemplary behavior was evidence to all that the feathered Red Men held full sway, especially around their own camp fire. The chief Sachem, whose white name is J. C. Wallace, presided over the ceremonies with great dignity. His speech to his warriors was listened to with marked attention interrupted now and then by a grunt of approval. His conduct of the entire ceremonies was executed with a quiet poise which called to his hearer's minds have not asked, as is often the case, 'The Last of the Mohicans.'

The feast spread for all was magnificent and consisted in part of buffalo, deer, wild turkey and other delicacies. Those high in the council of braves very properly tabooed faces lost their lives.

Rev. R. C. Love in a very solemn and impressive manner invoked the blessing of the Great Spirit upon the occasion.

After the feast other braves made speeches and in the glare of the camp fire their hearers sat in solemn silence while aboriginal eloquence poured from the lips of hardened warriors. The most notable was high chief medicine man, A. J. Driskill, who held all his hearers spell-bound. Standing in the firelight painted and befeathered, his long arm pointing a direct emphasis, he outlined the grievances of his tribe and called down dire destruction on the heads of all enemies of the Watstikans. Prophet C. E. Weldon painted in glowing colors the beauties of and the advantages offered by the Improved Order of Red Men. A few pale faces attempted to make speeches but it was very evident that the I simply ask the aid of all interweird surroundings produced upon ested in this. While there is a rumor in circulation that he may resign his position as a member of the court in the near future, there is no confirmation to be had, so too much dependence should not be placed in it. Some time ago, when asked whether he ever thought about retiring, Justice Harlan said:

"I can only say that I have not as yet determined what I shall do. I could have retired on full salary on June 1, 1903. Now and then the thought comes to me that I should retire in order that I might do certain work which I cannot well do while on the bench; but when I get close to a determination of the question the thought comes to me that my life would be shortened and perhaps become dreary if I should quit the work to which I have become accustomed, and in the doing of which I am most happy. So I am undecided in the matter. It may be that my judicial work may end only with my life, unless in the meantime I am informed by those near me and who Remember this great offer is for a very short time only. This offer is good to all old as well as new subscribers.

Twenty-two great papers and magazines in our clubs; and the wonderful part of it is that it only costs you a few cents more per month than you are now paying for the one you may be taking. Remember each issue of the Crittenden Press-Record will give you all the news of Marion and all the surrounding towns. The papers we offer contain many special departments which will appeal to both old and young. The market and business reports in the papers are alone worth many times the special price we ask for the entire club. All the magazines in each club are so well known that the description of them is unnecessary.

Remember each paper in every club is the best of its kind published. We have been very careful in making up our clubs so that each paper would be a representative one and that every paper would give complete satisfaction. To any business man, farmer, manufacturer or family, the market reports are alone worth the price of the entire club. Each paper gives you complete news, not only of the entire United States, but of the world as well. All of the magazines and paperrs have many special departments that will appeal to and please every person reading them. Semi-monthly and monthly magazines are so well known that when you read the name that alone tells what they are.

The Crittenden Record-Press is proud to be able to offer to its patrons clubs of this kind, composed of such representative papers and magazines, and we can say to each and every one that our offer is worth many times the price of the clubs and that no one will make a mistake in taking advantage of them.

On page three of this issue you will find an interesting article in regard to all of the papers in our club. This gives a full description of each paper. The saving habit is the key to wealth, not how much you make but how much you save.

Remember this offer is only for a short time. Don't let your opportunity pass. Order now. Tomorrow or next week may be too late.

Chamberlains Cough Remedy.

This remedy is extended especially for coughs, colds and croup. From a small begining its sale and use has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. Why? Because it has proved especially valuable for these diseases. People who once use it are so much pleased with the prompt cure which it effects that at this writing. they recommend it to their friends and neighbors. It is not a palliative intended to merely give temporary relief, but effects a permanent cure. It contains no opiums or other narcotic and may be given as confidentially to a baby as to an adult. #### Wedding at Lisman.

Mr. Lossie Gilbert, of Marion, and Miss Jettie Nichols, of Lisman, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents yesterday morning and after the wedding the happy couple boarded the early Dixon train for Marion to take Thanksgiving dinner with the relatives of the groom. The bride is one of the most popular, talanted and charming young ladies of Lisman and her marriage was quite a surprise to her numerous friends. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Nichols. The groom is a popular and worthy young gentleman and is favorably known in Providence, having been employed here during the summer months. He is preparing himself for the practice of medicine and he and his bride will make their home in Louisville until he has completed his studies in a medical college there. Mrs. Birdie Baker, of Lisman, a sister of the bride, will reside with them .- Providence Enterprise.

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Reenedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water and then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

He quotes at length from his mes cated federal control of corporations doing interstate business, and believes n such control would be found the remedy for overcapitalization and stock speculation which he believes have brought about the present financial conditions. He says:

"Our steady aim should be by legislation, cautiously and carefully under-taken, but resolutely persevered in, to assert the sovereignty of the national government by affirmative action.

This is only in form an innovation. In substance it is merely a restoration; from the earliest time such regulation of industrial activities has been recognized in the action of the lawmaking bodies; and all that I propose is to meet the changed conditions in such manner as will prevent the com monwealth abdicating the power it has always possessed, not only in this country, but also in England before and since this country became a separate

Federal Control of Railroads Is Favored.

"No small part of the trouble that we liance, of independence in initiative virtue and to provide for its fullest exercise, compatible with seeing that liberty does not become a liberty to effective regulation inevitably breeds, securities. If an incorporation should have complete and sole control of interstate commerce. There was then practically no interstate business save such as was conducted by water. and this the national government at once proceeded to regulate in theroughgoing and effective fashion. Condi-tions have now so wholly changed that the interstate commerce by water is insignificant compared with the amount that goes by land, and almost all big business concerns are now engaged in interstate commerce. As a result, it can be but partially and imperfectly controlled or regulated by the action of any one of the several states; such action inevitably tending to be either too drastic or else too lax, and in either case ineffective for purposes of justice. Only the national government can in thoroughgoing fashion exercise the needed control. This does not mean that there should be any extension of federal authority, for such authority already exists under the constitution in amplest and most far-reaching form; but it does mean that there should be an extension of federal activity. This is not advocating centralization. It is merely looking facts in the face, and realizing that centralization in business has already come and can not be avoided or undone, and that the public at large can only protect itself from certain evil effects of this business centralization by providing better methods for the exercise of control through the authority already centralized in the national government by the constitution itself. There must be no halt in the healthy constructive course of action which this nation has elected to pursue, and has steadily pursued, during the last six years, as shown both in legizlation of the congress and the administration of the law by the department of justice. The most vital ed is in connection with the railroads. is to these, in my judgment there ould now be either a national incorration act or a law licensing railway mpanies to engage in interstate comerce upon certain conditions. The law ould be so framed as to give to the erstate commerce commission power pass upon the future issue of securis, while ample means should be proled to enable the commission, whenever in its judgment it is necessary, to proper control of interstate commerce. We need a greater elasticity in our curin the exercise of the authority it already possesses, it will be impossible either to give to or to get from the railroads full justice. The railroads and all other great corporations will do well to recognize that this control must come; the only question is as to what governmental body can most wisely exercise it. The courts will determine the limits within which the federal authority can exercise it, and there will still remain ample work within each state for the railway commission of that state; and the national interstate commerce commission will work in harmony with the several state commissions, each within its own prov-ince, to achieve the desired end. Control of Interstate

Business Concerns Urged.

Moreover, in my judgment there should be additional legislation looking to the proper control of the great business concerns engaged in interstate business, this control to be exercised for their own benefit and prosperity no less than for the protection of investors and of the general public. As I have repeatedly said in messages to congress and elsewhere, experience has definitely shown not merely the unwisdom but the futility of endeavoring to put a stop to all business combinations. Modern industrial conditions are such that combination is not only necessary but inevitable. It is so in the world of business just as it is so in the world of labor, and it is as idle to desire to put an end to all corporaas to desire to put an end to combina tions of labor. Corporation and labor union alike have come to stay. Each if properly managed is a source of good and not evil. Whenever in either there is evil, it should be promptly held to ac-count; but it should receive hearty en-couragement so long as it is properly managed. It is profoundly immoral put or keep on the statute books a law. nominally in the interest of public moral ity, that really puts a premium upon public immorality, by undertaking to forbid honest men from doing what must be done under modern business conditions, so that the law itself provides that its own infraction must be the condition precedent upon business success. To aim at the accomplishment of too much usu ally means the accomplishment of too little, and often the doing of positive dam age.

The antitrust law should not be repealed; but it should be made both more efficient and more in harmony with actual conditions. It should be so amended as to forbid only the kind of combination which does harm to the general public, such amendment to be accompanied by, or to be an incident of, a grant of supervisory power to the government over these big corporations engaged in interstate business. This should be accompanied by provision for the compulsory publication of accounts and the subje-tion of books and papers to the inspetion of the government officials. A beginning has already been made for supervision by the establishment of the bureau of corporations.

"The antitrust law should not prohibit combinations that do no injustice to the public, still less those the existence of which is on the whole of benefit to the public. But even if this feature of the law were abolished, there would remain as an equally objectionable feature the difficulty and delay now incident to its enforcement. The government must now submit to irksome and repeated delays before obtaining a final decision of the courts upon proceedings instituted, and even a favorable decree may mean an empty victory. Moreover, to attempt to control these corporations by lawsuits means to impose upon both the department of justice and the courts an impossible burden; it is not feasible to carry on more than a limited number of such suits. Such a law to be really effective must of course be administered by an of lawsuits. The design should be to prevent the abuses incident to the creation of unhealthy and improper combina-tions, instead of waiting until they are n existence and then attempting to de stroy them by civil or criminal proceed#### ings. Investing Public Should

Be Amply Safeguarded. "The congress has the power to charter corporations to engage in interstate and oreign commerce, and a general law can be enacted under the provisions of which existing corporations could take out federal charters and new federal corporations could be created. An essential provision of such a law should be a method have comes from carrying to an ex-treme the national virtue of self-re- or commission whether the applicant for a federal charter was an association or and action. It is wise to conserve this combination within the restrictions of the federal law. Provision should also be made for complete publicity in all matters affecting the public and complete protecwrong others. Unfortunately, this is tion to the investing public and the share-the kind of liberty that the lack of all holders in the matter of issuing corporate The founders of the constitution pro- deemed advisable, a license act for big vided that the national government interstate corporations might be enacted; sole control or a combination of the two might be There was tried. The supervision established might be avalogous to that now exercised over national banks. At least, the anti-orust act should be supplemented by spe prohibitions of the methods which perience has shown have been of most service in enabling monopolistic combinations to crush out competition. The real owners of a corporation should be compelled to do business in their own name The right to hold stock in other corporations should heareafter be denied to interstate corporations, unless on approval by the proper government officials, and prerequisite to such approval should be the listing with the government of all owners and stockholders, both by the corporation owning such stock and by the corporations in which such stock owned.

"To confer upon the national government, in connection with the amendment I advocate in the antitrust law, power of supervision over big business concerns engaged in interstate commerce, would benefit them as it has benefited the nanal banks. In the recent business crisis it is noteworthy that the institutions which failed were institutions which were not under the supervision and control of the national government. Those which were under national contro! stood the test.

"National control of the kind above advocated would be to the benefit of every well-managed railway. From the stand point of the public there is need for additional tracks, aditional terminals, and improvements in the actual handling of the railroads, and all this as rapidly as possible. Ample, safe, and speedy transportation facilities are even more necesthan cheap transportation. Therefore, there is need for the investment of money which will provide for all these things while at the same time securing as fas as is possible better wages and shorter hours for their employes. Therefore, while there must be just and reasonable regulation of rates, we should be the first to protest against any arbitrary and unthinking movement to cut them down without the fullest and most careful consideration of all interests concerned and of the actual needs of the situation. Only a special body of men acting for the national government under authority conferred upon it by the congress is competent to pass judgment make a physical valuation of any rail- on such a matter.

Provision should be made for an emergency currency. The emergency issue should, of course, be made with an effective guaranty, and upon conditions carefully prescribed by the government. Such emergency issue must be based on adequate securities approved by the government, and must be issued under a heavy tax. This would permit currency being issued when the demand for it was urgent, while securing its re tirement as the demand fell off. It is worth investigating to determine whether officers and directors of national banks should ever be allowed to loan to them-Trust companies should be subject to the same supervision as banks; legislation to this effect should be enacted for the District of Columbia and the territories. "Yet we must also remember that ever the wisest legislation on the subject can only accomplish a certain amount. No legislation can by any possibility guar antee the business community against the results of speculative folly any more than it can guarantee an individual against the results of his extravagance. When an individual mortgages his house to buy an automobile he invites disaster; and when wealthy men, or men who pose as such or are unscrupulously or foolishly eage to become such, indulge in reckless spec ulation—especially if it is accompanied by dishonesty—they jeopardize not only their own future but the future of all their innocent fellow-citizens, for they expose the whole business community to paniand distress."

He advises against any general tariff legislation this session of congress, and 'In a country of such phenomenal growth as ours it is probably well that every dozen years or so the tariff laws should be carefully scrutinized so as to should be carefully scrutinized so as to see that no excessive or improper benefits are conferred thereby, that proper revenue is provided, and that our foreign trade is encouraged. There must always be as a minimum a tariff which will not only allow for the collection of an ample revenue but which will at least make good the difference in cost of production here and abroad: that is, the difference in the labor cost here and abroad, for the well-being of the wage-worker must ever be a cardinal point of American policy. The question should be approached purely from a business standpoint; both the time and the manner of the change being such as to arouse the minimum of agi-tation and disturbance in the business world, and to give the least play for selfish and factional motives. The sole consideration should be to see that the sum total of changes represent the pub-This means that the subject cannot with wisdom be dealt with in the year preceding a presidential election, beas a matter of fact experience has conclusively shown that at such a time it is impossible to get men to treat it from the standpoint of the public good. Attention is called to the prosecution of wealthy offenders against the national laws, and in this connection he asks that laws under which these prosecutions are brought be strengthened and made more definite.

The Use and the Abuse of Injunctions.

"Instances of abuse in the granting of injunctions in labor disputes continue to occur, and the resentment in the minds of those who feel that their rights are being invaded and their liberty of action and of speech unwarrantably restrained continues to grow Much of the attack on the use of the process of injunction is wholly without warrant; but I am constrained to express the belief that for some of it there is warrant. This question is becoming more and more of prim importance, and unless the courts will themselves deal with it in effective manner, it is certain ultimately to demand some form of legislative action. It would be most unfortunate for our social wel-fare if we should permit many honest and law-abiding citizens to feel they had just cause for regarding our courts with hostility. I earnestly commend to the attention of the congress is matter, so that some way may be devised which will limit the abuse of in ctions and protect those rights which rom time to time it unwarrantably inades. Moreover, discontent is often expressed with the use of the process of injunction by the courts, not only in la-bor disputes, but where state laws are oncerned. I refrain from discussion of his question as I am informed that it on receive the consideration of the supreme court."

Of other legislation in the interest of abor he favors federal inspection of rai roads; providing limited but definite com pensation for accidents to all workmen employed in any way by the government, and says:

"The constitutionality of the employers' liability act passed by the preceding con gress has been carried before the courts. In two jurisdictions the law has been de clared unconstitutional, and in three juris fictions its constitutionality has been affirmed. The question has been carried to the supreme court, the case has been ord was eclipsed and a total of 1.517. heard by that tribunal, and a decision is expected at an early date. In the event hat the court should affirm the constitutionality of the act, I urge further leg islation along the lines advocated in my message to the preceding congress. The practice of putting the entire burden of oss of life or limb upon the victim or tne victim's family is a form of social in-justice in which the United States stands in unenviable prominence. In both our federal and our state legislation we have. with few exceptions, scarcely gone farther than the repeal of the fellowservant principle of the old law of liability, and in some of our states even this slight modification of a complete outgrown principle has not yet been secured.

He favors the extension of the eighthour law to all departments of the government, and to all work carried on by the government. He urges legislation for the compulsory investigation of industrial disputes, and says: "The need for some provision for such investigation was forcibly illustrated during the past summer. A strike of telegraph operators seriously interfered telegraphic communication, ing great damage to business interests serious inconvenience to the general public. Appeals were made to from many parts of the country, from councils, from boards of trade, from chambers of commerce, and from abor organizations, urging that steps be taken to terminate the strike. Everything that could with any propriety be done by a representative of the government was done without avail, and for weeks the public stood by and suffered without recourse of any kind. Had the machinery existed and had there been authority for compulsory investigation of the dispute, the public would have been placed in possession of the merits of the controversy, and public opinion would probably have ught about prompt adjustment ast two rainy seasons demonstrates that the rains are a less serious obstacle to progress than has hitherto been supposed. "Work on the locks and dams at Gatun, which began actively in March has advanced so far that it is thought that masonry work on locks can be begun within 15 months.

"Last winter bids were requested and received for doing the work of canal construction by contract. None of them was found to be satisfactory and all were rejected. It is the unanimous opinion of the present commission that the work can be done better, more cheaply, and more quickly by the government than by private contractors. Fully 80 per cent. of the entire plant needed for construction has been purchased or contracted for; machine shops have been erected and equipped for making all needed repairs to the plant; many thousands of employes have been secured; an effective organization has been perfected; a recruiting system is in operation which is capable of furnishing more labor than can be used advantageously; employes are well sheltered and well fed; salaries paid are satisfactory, and the work is not only going forward smoothly it is producing results far in advance of the most sanguine anticipations. Under these favorable Under these favorable conditions, a change in the method of prosecuting work would be unwise and unjusti-

"The conservation of our national resources and their proper use constitute the fundamental problem which under-ites almost every other problem of our national life. We must maintain for our civilization the adequate material basis without which that civilization cannot exist. We must show foresight, we must look ahead. As a nation we not only enjoy a wonderful measure of present prosperity but if this prosperity is used aright it is an earnest of future success such as no other nation will have. The reward of foresight for this nation is great and easily foretold.

But there must be the look ahead, there must be a realization of the fact that to waste, to destroy, our natural resources, to skin and exhaust the land

instead of using it so as to increase its usefulness, will result in undermining in the days of our children the very prosperity which we ought by right to the Great Lakes to the mouth of the Mississippi there should be a deep wa-terway, with deep waterways leading om it to the east and the west. Such a waterway would practically mean the extension of our coast line into the ery heart of our country. It would be incalculable benefit to our people. If gun at once it can be carried through n time appreciably to relieve the congestion of our great freight-carrying lines of railroads. The work should be systematically and continuously carried opceived plan. The main streams

"I commend to the favorable consideration of the congress a postal savings bank system, as recommended by the postmaster general. The primary object is to encourage among our peo-ple economy and thrift and by the use of postal savings banks to give them an opportunity to husband their resources, particularly those who have not the facilities at hand for depositing their money in savings banks. Viewed however, from the experience of the past few weeks, it is evident that the advantages of such an institution are still more far-reaching. Timid deposthe time being from national banks; individuals have howrded their cash and the workingmen their earnings; all of which money has been withdrawn and kept in hiding or in the safe de-posit box to the detriment of prosperity. Through the agency of the postal savings banks such money would be restored to the channels of trade, to the mutual benefit of capital and labor. "I further commend to the congress the consideration of the postmaster general's recommendation for an extension of the parcel post, especially on the rural routes. There are now 38,-215 rural routes, serving nearly 15,000,-000 people who do not have the ad-vantages of the inhabitants of cities in obtaining their supplies. These recommendations have been drawn up to benefit the farmer and the country storekeeper; otherwise, I should not favor them, for I believe that it is good policy for our government to do everything possible to aid the small town and the country district. It is desirable that the country merchant should not be crushed out. "The fourth-class postmasters' convention has passed a very strong resoution in favor of placing the fourthlass postmasters under the civil-serv ce law. The administration has already put into effect the policy of re-fusing to remove any fourth-class postmasters save for reasons connected with the good of the service; and it is endeavoring so far as possible to remove them from the domain of partisan politics. It would be a most desirable hing to put the fourth-class postmas ers in the classified service.

Corporation Contributions

to Compaign Expenses. 'Under our form of government voting is not merely a right but a duty, and moreover, a fundamental and necessary duty if a man is to be a good citizen It is well to provide that corporations shall not contribute to presidential or national campaigns, and furthermore to provide for the publication of both conributions and expenditures. There is, however, always danger in laws of this kind, which from their very nature are difficult of enforcement; the danger being lest they be obeyed only by the honest and disobeyed by the unscrupulous, so as to act only as a penalty upon honest Moreover, no such law would hamper an unscrupulous man of unlimited means from buying his own way into office. There is a very radical measure which would, I believe, work a substantial improvement in our system of conducting a campaign, although I am well aware that it will take some time for eople to so familiarize themselves with such a proposal as to be willing to con-sider its adoption. The need for collecting large campaign funds would vanish it congress provided an appropriation for proper and legitimate expenses of each of the great national parties, an appropriation ample enough to meet the necessity for thorough organization and machinery, which requires a large expenditure of money. Then the stipulaion should be made that no party reving campaign funds from the treasury should accept more than a fixed amount from any individual subscriber or donor and the necessary publicity for receipts and expenditures could without difficulty e provided."

Wants Improvement in the cean Mail Service.

"I call your especial attention to the unsatisfactory condition of our foreign mai merican steamship lines, is now largely one through foreign lines, and whi articularly so far as South and Central merica are concerned, is done in a man-er which constitutes a serious barrier the extensions of our commerce. "The time has come, in my judgment, set to work seriously to make our cean mail service correspond more losely with our recent commercial and olitical development. A beginning was ade by the ocean mail act of March 3. 891, but even at that time the act was known to be inadequate in various parculars. Since that time events have noved rapidly in our history. We have equired Hawaii, the Philippines, and sser islands in the Pacific. We are steadily prosecuting the great work of uniting at the Isthmus the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific. To a greater xtent than seemed probably even a ozen years ago we may look to an merican future on the sea worthy of he tradition of our past. As the first step in that direction, and the step most easible at the present time. I recommend he extension of the ocean mail act of 1891. That act has stood for some years free from successful criticism of its priniple and purpose. It was based on theo ies of the obligations of a great marime nation, undisputed in our own land nd followed by other nations since the eginning of steam navigation. ose theories are, that it is the duty of first-class power so far as practicable carry its ocean mails under its own iag: that the fast ocean steamships and heir crews, required for such mail serve, are valuable auxiliaries to the sea ower of a nation. Furthermore, the instruction of such steamships insures e maintenance in an efficient condition f the shipyards in which our battleships ust be built

"The expenditure of public money for e performance of such necessary funcions of government is certainly warinted, nor is it necessary to dwell upon he incidentas benefits to our foreign ommerce, to the shipbuilding industry, and to ship owning and navigation which will accompany the discharge of these argent public duties, though they, too, hould have weight."

Asks Increase in Pay for Army Officers and Men.

The president devotes much space to he affairs of the army, and strongly tion be kept up to the highest possible andard of efficiency, and says:

"The medical corps should be much ceater than the needs of our regular rmy in war. Yet at present it is small-than the needs of the service demand ven in peace. curred less than ten years ago. The chief loss we suffered in it was by dis ease among the regiments which never left the country. At the moment the nation seemed deeply impressed by this fact: yet seemingly it has already been forgotten, for not the slightest effort has been made to prepare a medical corps of sufficient size to prevent the repetition of the same disaster on a much larger scale if we should ever be engaged in a serious conflict.

"But the medical department is not the only department for which increased provision should be made. The rate of pay for the officers should be greatly increased; there is no higher type of citizen than the American regular officer, and he should have a fair reward for his admirable work. There should be a relatively even greater increase in the pay for the enlisted men. An especial provision should be made for establishing grades equivalent to those of warrant officers in the navy, which should be open to the enlisted men who serve sufficiently long and who do their work well. Inducement should be offered sufficient to encourage really good men to make the army a life occupation. The prime needs of our present army is to secure and retain compe-tent noncommissioned officers. This difficulty rests fundamentally on the question of pay. The noncommissioned offices does not correspond with an unskilled laborer; he corresponds to the best type of skilled werkman or to the subordinate official in civil institutions. Wages have greatly increased in outside occupations in the last 40 years and the pay of the soldier, like the pay of the officers, should be proportionately increased. The first sergeant of a company, if a good man, must be one of such executive and ad-ministrative ability, and such knowledge of his trade, as to be worth far more than we at present pay him. The same is true of the regimental sergeant major. These men should be men who had fully re-solved to make the army a life occupation and they should be able to look forward to ample reward; while only men properly qualified should be given chance to secure these final rewards. The increase over the present pay need not be great in the lower grades for the first one or two enlistments, but the increase should be marked for the noncommissioned officers of the upper grades whe serve long enough to make it evident that they intend to stay permaneutly in the army, while additional pay should be given for high qualifications in target

"Among the officers there should be severe examinations to weed out the unfit up to the grade of major. From that position on appointments should be solely by selection and it should be understood that a man of merely average capacity could never get beyond the position of major, while every man who serves in any grade a certain length of time prior to promotion to the next grade without getting the promotion to the next grade should be forthwith retired." President Sees Need of Largely Increased Navy.

The president asks for a continuous increase in the navy, and asks present congress for appropriations for new battleships, and says:

"We need always to remember that in time of war the navy is not to be used to defend harbors and sea-coast cities; we should perfect our system of coast fortifications. The only efficient use for the navy is for offense. The only way in which it can efficiently protect our own coast against the possible action of a foreign navy is by destroy-ing that foreign navy. For defense against a hostile fleet which actually attacks them, the coast cities must de-pend upon their forts, mines, torpedoes, submarines and torpedo boats and destrovers. All of these together are efficient for defensive purposes, but they in no way supply the place of a thoroughly efficient navy capable of acting on the offensive; for parrying never yet won a fight. It can only be won by hard hiting, and an aggressive sea-going navy alone can do this hard hitting of the offensive type. But the forts and the like are necessary so that the there is sure to be demand, under pres sure of fright, for the ships to be scattered so as to defend all kind of ports. Under penalty of terrible disaster, demand must be refused. The ships must be kept together, and their objective made the enemies' fleet. fortifications are sufficiently strong, no modern navy will venture to attack them, so long as the foe has in existence a hostile navy of anything like the same size or efficiency. But unless there exists such a navy then the fortifications are powerless by themselves to secure the victory. For of course the mere deficiency means that any resolute enemy can at his leisure combine all his forces upon one point with the certainty that he can take it.

Gives Reasons for Despatch Of Fleet to the Pacific.

"Until our battle fleet is much larger than at present it should never be split into detachments so far apart that they could not in event of emergency be speedily united. Our coast line is on the Pacific just as much as on the Atlantic. The interests of California, Oregon and Washington are as emphatically the interests of the whole union as those of Maine and New York. of Louisiana and Texas. The battle fleet should now and then be moved to the Pacific, just as at other times it should be kept in the Atlantic. the isthmian canal is built the transit of the battle fleet from one ocean to the other will be comparatively Until it is built I earnestly hope that the battle fleet will be thus shifted between the two oceans every year or The marksmanship on all our ships has improved phenomenally during the last five years. Until within the last two or three years it was not possible to train a battle fleet in squadron maneuvers under service conditions. and it is only during these last two or three years that the training under these conditions has become really effective. Another and most necessary stride in advance is now being taken. The battle fleet is about starting by the Straits of Magellan to visit the Pacific coast. Sixteen battleships are going under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, while eight armored cruisers and two other battleships will meet him at San Francisco, whither certain torpedo destroyers are also go-No fleet of such size made such a voyage, and it will be of very great educational use to all engaged in it. The only way by which to teach officers and men how to handle the fleet so as to meet every possible strain and emergency in time of war is to have them practice under similar conditions in time of peace. Moreover, the only way to find out our actual needs is to perform in time of peace whatever maneuvers might be neces-sary in time of war. After war is declared it is too late to find out the needs: that means to invite disaster. The trip to the Pacific will show what some of our needs are and will enable us to provide for them. The proper place for an officer to learn his duty is at sea, and the only way in which navy can ever be made efficient is by practice at sea, under all the conditions which would have to be met if war existed." He reviews the work accomplished by the second peace conference at Tha Hague; notes the improvement of affairs in Cuba, and the preparations being made to reestablish the government of the island republic; asks permission to cancel the remainder of China's, indemnity obligation to us, and reviews the effect of Secretary Root's
